Cumulative List of Key Documents:
A Finding Aid

The following cumulative list identifies the major documents in all volumes of Al-Qaeda & Jihadi Movements Worldwide (AQJM), whether in fulltext or in abstracts. This reference aid is provided separately because this complete cumulative list simply takes up too many pages to be included in each new AQJM edition.

This list also includes cross reference information between corporate and individual authors, with scope notes explaining relationships between organizations, and clarifying name variants for corporate authors.

Documents appearing in volumes 1-2 have a [1-2] particle at the end of the citation. There are particles for [1-2], [3-4], [5-6], [7-8], [9/10], [11/12], [13/14], [15/16], [17/19], [20-Color], [21/22], [23/25], [26-Afghan], [27/28], [29/33], [34/35], [36-Gaza], [37/41], [39-Green], [42-43], [44-45], [46-Mex], [47-48], [49], and [50-FRSO]. Special volumes include:

[20-Color] Color Revolutions.
[26-Afghan] UN Operations in Afghanistan
[50-FRSO] FBI Raids on the FRSO Network

Key Documents relies on a few tags that classify line entries, such as:

SN: Scope Note: a short clarification.
Note: Additional information.
USE: Indicates the preferred author.
UF: Indicates an unpreferred author.
See: a cross reference.

Cordoba Institute: SN: Aspen Institute Neo-Con affiliate that promotes multiculturalism for Muslims (including multicultural curriculum for madrassas). Major projects are: (1) developing an Israeli-friendly Judeo-Islamic school of Islamic law (Shariah Project); (2) Muslim Leaders of Tomorrow (MLT), to create an Israeli-friendly Judeo-Islamic elite to rule the Muslim world; and (3) Women's Islamic Initiative in Spirituality & Equity (WISE) to mobilize women as “change agents” to promote feminism in the Muslim world and to globalize Muslim societies. An emerging focus of Cordoba was Iran. [39-Green]

[Draft] District of Columbia: Department of Defense, April 4, 2007. [Two different versions of this draft document have been released: The March 6, 2003 draft and the April 4 draft. Although reprinted in several sources, no one has made any effort to compare the different drafts. The most obvious difference between the documents is that the March draft breaks at a point noted in:

Working Group Report On Detainee Interrogations In The Global War On Terrorism: Assessment Of Legal Historical Policy And Operational Considerations: Part 54: (IV) Considerations Affecting Policy: (B) Presidential And Secretary Of Defense Directives. [Draft] ... April 4, 2003". >There are other differences of omission. The March draft does not include the brief "(I) Introduction" section that appears at the beginning of the April draft, and instead begins with section "(II) International Law". >Without pretending to have made a complete survey of the differences between the two drafts, it is worth noting that in one section on permissible torture, the Working Group Report On Detainee Interrogations In The Global War On Terrorism: Assessment Of Legal Historical Policy And Operational Considerations: Part 10: (III) Domestic Law: (A) Federal Criminal Law: (1) Torture Statute: (e) Harm Caused By Or Resulting From Predicate Acts. [Draft] ... April 4, 2003, has a longer definition of "mind-altering substances", than the earlier draft.] [23-26]

Mission Free Iran. White Racists of May First Coalition Oppose Green Revolution: May Day Assault From The Reactionary American Left. [Blue-Eyed European-Americans have no right to oppose Green Revolution] Mission Free Iran (missionfreeiran.wordpress.com), May 2, 2010. [Note: On the NY May Day protest 2010 (one of two competing events) an activist from the pro-Green Revolution Mission Free Iran was assaulted by Marcyte Global Class War partisans. The Marcites (named for Sam Marcy) attacked the MFI person and attempted to steal a sign while calling the MFI person a warmonger. (Not long ago a Clifflite demo attacked a person holding an anti-Hamas sign in England). Interestingly, in the second part a white leftist felt insulted for being white. The insulters were the (white, presumably Jewish) organizers, Marcites.] [49]
